

Community Gardens on Campus

Problem Definition: Community gardens can be described as a piece of land that is cultivated as a group in order to create a garden. The main problem is that Arizona State University, specifically the Phoenix Campus, is missing out on the endless opportunities and benefits of these gardens.

26 OUT OF 28
STUDENTS SUPPORT THEIR COMMUNITY.

92%

Solution Proposal: The solution my group and I came up with was to build more community gardens on top of the Universities dorms! This might seem weird or impossible, but in reality, it is quite simple.